

Soozie tells of her first date, where for fun her older brothers greeted her date dressed in shirtless overalls and cleaning their shotguns. I don't think that there was a second date.

After we started dating each other, we thought ourselves as damaged goods because we were both divorced. You can imagine that I was pretty nervous to go to Memphis and meet her family. I was afraid that they would not accept any one else in her life. But her parents accepted me – fully, and without any hesitation.

I find this acceptance absolutely beyond anything I could expect or even imagine!

But then, so is the Amazing Grace of God. And that is what we celebrate in this communion.