

The Scriptures in many places tell us to “Sing to the Lord a new song<sup>1</sup>.” I had always thought that that meant one song about the new covenant, the new Kingdom, as in Revelation, but I think David in the Psalms used this idea with a deeper meaning. He believed in singing a new song of worship every day, as we see God’s mighty works, the marvelous things that He has done. The universe itself sings a different song every day, for it is continuously changing. There are so many possibilities, relating to the different things that happen to us each day. This is the way we should approach this remembrance of our Lord’s death and resurrection – finding fresh ways to more deeply understand His sacrifice for us.

1. see Psalm 33:3, Psalm 96:1, Psalm 98:1, Psalm 105:2, Psalm 144:9, Psalm 149:1, and Isaiah 42:10

© Copyright 2017, Heard Lowry